CLEARED A MYSTERY

"MRS. EVERETT, OF BOSTON."

The Woman Who Committed Suicide in New York Was His Daughter-in-Law-Her Romance.

Last week a young and elegantly-attired woman registered at the Colonnade Hotel in New York as "Mrs. Everett, of Boston." On Friday she was found dead in her apartment, shot through the head by her own hand. There was not a clew to her identity, as she had taken particular care to remove every mark that might show who she was. The affair has been a mystery in New York for several days, but yesterday ex-Judge Ralph Hill, of the law firm of Lamb, Hill & Dye, of this city, positively good. Nothing cheap, except the prices, and | identified her as the wife of his son, Edward E. Hill, formerly of this city, but now a theatrical manager in London, England. Mrs. Hill was fairly well known in this city. She lived most of her young life at Columbus, Ind., where her father, Col. John A. Keith, now resides.

Last Saturday Judge Hill received a cablegram from his son in London asking him to | dinance to prevent indiscriminate sprinkling go to New York and view the body of the of improved streets and finally refused to woman found dead at the Colonnade Hotel, pass the ordinance. gant, her linen dainty and her boots and gloves and other belongings indicated that she had been used to wealth and good surroundings. She left a note unaddressed and unsigned which read: "Hereditary insanity. Have no family, so beg that my wishes be obeyed." In a purse close by this note was $59. When she arrived at the hotel the clerk noticed that she was a small brunette. obeyed." In a purse close by this note was $59. When she arrived at the hotel the clerk noticed that she was a small brunette, about thirty years of age and had laughing black eyes of rare luster, wavy hair that was as black as jet, a white, transparent skin and smilling lips that revealed small, even teeth. She wore a maroon velvet dress, with an Antoinette collar trimmed with rich white lace, fastened at the neck with a brooch of gold and black enamel, set with nime small diamonds. On her little finger were two small diamond rings. Her skirt was of turquoise silk, while her bonnet was a very pretty one. She had but little to say to the people about the hotel and her appearance was that of a refined, quiet woman. Apparently she was in good spirits and in good health. Immediately after the finding of the body the hotel people set up a claim for the money found in the purse, for damages, by reason of the suicide, to the hotel room. Streams of people called at the morgue to see if they knew the dead woman. Two or three people identified her differently. One telegraph operator, with a desire for notoriety, claimed that she was his dead wife, but it was shown that this man was a fraud. The manufacturers' marks on her shoes and gloves were English and from this it was surmised that she was a foreigner.

GROUNDS FOR INSANITY THEORY.

GROUNDS FOR INSANITY THEORY. Edward E. Hill is the oldest son of Judge Ralph Hill, and is about thirty-five years of age now. He is remembered here as quite a handsome young man fifteen years ago. He had no regular profession until he went into the theatrical business, which he has followed for a number of years. He and Miss Keith were married at Danville, Ind., about seventeen years ago, having eloped from Columbus, They had been sweethearts since early childhood. She was a girl of more than ordinary beauty, and of very extraordinary vivacity and intelligence. She was reared in luxury, and had every advantage that wealth could bestow. For several years she attended Vass College, but was not a graduate from there. After leaving Vassar, while yet a mere child, she and Mr. Hill were married. They afterwards went into the theatrical business, making one tour with the Swiss bellringers. They tried to keep from their relatives the fact that they were on the stage. While in New York Mr. and Mrs. Hill were taught by a musician named Lapimini, and both of them became quite proficient in music, devoting themselves to the mandolin and guitar. Afterwards Mrs. Hill appeared with Emma Abbott on a concert tour, her special feature of the entertainment being a mandolin per formance. Her appearance in this city with this company is recalled. About ten years tago they went to London, where Mr. Hill organized a string band and made a tour of Europe. The couple adopted the professional name of "Zeruga," and most Europeans believed that he was a Spaniard. It is said that his band played frequently before the Queen of England. In connection with the management of this band Hill also maintained a theatrical agency in London. His management of this band Hill also maintained a theatrical agency in London. ondency is discredited by those who knew The note left by Mrs. Hill and the developments in the life of her father, Col. John A. Keith, gives ready credence to the belief that hereditary, or at least some suddenly developed insanity, prompted her to take her own life. Colonel Keith was some years ago one of the most prominent lawyers at the southern Indiana bar, and, while a brilliant and successful man, was eccentric. He drank a great deal and showed occasional signs of insanity. At one time he was under signs of insanity. At one time he was under treatment at the insane hospital in this treatment at the insane hospital in this city. While in a paroxysm a number of years ago he killed a man on a train in the South. After springing from the train he escaped, but was captured, tried and acquitted upon the ground of emotional insanity. He was formerly a wealthy man, but his possessions had been gradually dissipated. He saw hard service during the war, and was wounded in the shoulder. This wound has given him much trouble, and only recently an operation was performed which brought out pieces of an epaulet that had been carried into the flesh over thirty years ago. The mother of his daughter, May, died when the child was very young. Colonel Keith's father was also possessed of considerable property, and after his son began to drink so hard he left most of it to the granddaughter. Mr. and Mrs. Hill have never had any children. It is quite probable that the body of the suicide will be taken to Columbus, Ind., for burial. Ex-Judge Hill will be home Friday.

WATER WORKS CONVENTION.

Programme for the National Meeting Next Week.

Mr. F. A. W. Davis, acting president of the American Water Works Association, in conjunction with the Commercial Club, is making active preparations for the entertainment of the delegates to the national convention, which meets in this city Tuesday. Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The convention will be held in the Denison Hotel. A series of entertainments have been arranged for by the Commercial Club, including an afternoon excursion for the comen who attend to the Country Club and eception on Friday evening. Ample accomnodations have been secured at the Denison. The reading room will be used for a mechanical exhibition hall. A large collection of mechanical pictures and photographs will be on exhibition in a small room to the left of the ladies' entrance hall. On the sidewalk a booth will be erected for a large mechanical exhibit. A working Venturi water meter, for the measurement of water in large volumes, will be attached to a water plug on the corner opposite the booth.

The large corridor on the fourth floor will be devoted to the meetings of the convention. A speakers' stand will be erected near the doorway leading into the Century Club room, where the headquarters of National Secretary Peter Milne, of New York city, will be established. Mr. Milne is purveyor of the city of Brooklyn, and superintends the work of fixing the city water rate. A number of delegates will be accompanied by their wives, and two parlors have been reserved for their use. Governor Matthews ladies' entrance hall. On the sidewalk a and Mayor Taggart will deliver addresses of welcome. The programme for the convention has not been fully arranged, but a number of prominent water-works men and chemists of national reputation will read papers. Mr. Allen Hazen, of Boston, who was the chemist of the Columbian Exposition, will speak. Professor Smith, of Ann Arbor University will read an interesting paper on will speak. Professor Smith, of Ann Arbor University, will read an interesting paper on the annual rise and fall of streams. Professor Smith's paper will relate to the Mississippi river particularly. Professor Leeds, of Trenton, N. J., and Professor Colter, of Purdue, will also address the convention.

Mr. Davis thinks, judging from past conventions, that probably three hundred men interested in water works will be here. It is supposed that every State in the Union is supposed that every State in the Union will be represented, and delegates from Canada will also probably come. Mr. Evans Woollen, secretary of the Commercial Club, is absent from home. Upon his return the programme will be arranged and announced.

The ordinance for the protection of bicyclists, prohibiting the throwing of broken glass, tin cans, tacks, etc., in the streets was glass, tin cans, tacks, etc., in the streets was passed unanimously; also the ordinance permitting Knight & Jillson to lay a private sidetrack across Pennsylvania street.

An ordinace was introduced providing for the establishment of a grade for West street between Georgia street and Kentucky avenue. There are a number of railroad tracks crossing the street and they are built at various grades. The object of the ordinance is to require all to conform to the grade established by the city engineer before West street is improved. An ordinance was introduced at the request of the Board of Pubic Safety, providing for the transfer of funds subject to that department as follows: $500 from the emergency police service fund to the station house incidental fund; $1,000 from the fire force horse feed account to the account for repairs to apaccount to the account for repairs to apparatus; $500 from the fire alarm telegraph paratus; $500 from the fire alarm telegraph account to the account for the repair of fire department buildings.

The finance committee reported unanimously against the resolution to pay Lee Nixon, ex-city clerk, $300 for indexing the journal to the Council proceedings and providing for a like payment to Mr. Stuckmeyer. The resolution was stricken from the files.

A number of small bills, mainly for work upon streets and sidewalks, were presented and allowed. The secretary of the Board of Health made a brief report, and itemized reports were read from the chief of the fire department and electrician. A resolution was next introduced for the opening and extension of Harding street to the south limit of the corporation. This street is also to be widened to sixty feet. This being the night for opening bids on cement walks for Howard street and Woodburn avenue, the original petitions were read, and also a remonstrance from Howard-street property owners. The remonstrators were in the majority. The Council's vote was a tie and the Mayor voted for the improvement. The vote jority. The Council's vote was a tie and the Mayor voted for the improvement. The vote was as follows: Ayes—Brown, Wantland, McCain, Tolin. Nays—Dixon, Hoyt and Shockley. There was only one bid entered for both Howard street and Woodburn avenue, and that was by Henry Maag, whose bid was 62 cents a foot. The bid was accepted. The ordinance regulating the salaries of town officials was referred to the committee on fees and salaries, and they were unable to report on it last night. An ordinance known as ordinance No. 73, providing for the issuing and sale of ten coupon bonds of $1,000 each, for the purpose of funding the outstanding indebtedness and preparing for an emergency, was pushed through three readings and adopted. Ordinance No. 74, authorizing the city of West Indianapolis to make a temporary loan to meet expenses of the city was also adopted. The loan was fixed at $5,000 at 7 per cent. interest, payable July 1, 1896. The loan had been arranged for, providing the Council passed the bond ordinance at this meeting. A resolution was introduced and adopted to have the city treasurer file with the Council an itemized report of cash on hand and expended from May 1, 1895, to May 1, 1896.

Suburban Notes. 1 Miss Zella Richardson, of West Indianapolis, met a friend of the opposite sex on a street car in the suburb, last Sunday afternoon, and with him left the car at Oliver avenue and neither of the two have since been seen. Yesterday the girl's father was "gunning" for the young man, but without success, and last night the mother reported the matter to officer Stoddard, of the West Indianapolis police force, and asked his assistance in finding her daughter. The officer finally got a trace of her in the city, but up to a late hour last night neither of the parties had been found.

Officer Stoddard arrested Samuel Welsh, of Officer Stoddard arrested Samuel Welsh, of No. 17 Willard street, city, last night for riding his bicycle on the sidewalk. Welsh and John Iskerwood, arrested by Stoddard for violating the same ordinance, will have trial to-day. Reed James was tried yesterday for riding on the sidewalk and released.

Mose Savinsky, a rag picker from the city, was to be tried before 'Squire Herrick for petty larceny yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, but for some unknown reasons the 'Squire failed to appear and the case will now go to the grand jury.

Good Effect of the Law Preventing Padding of Returns-Some Figures from the Cities.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction yesterday finished the computation of the school enumeration of the State recently taken. This year's figures show a falling off of 64,603 from the enumeration of 1895, a decrease of 8 per cent. This arises through the operation of the stringent law passed by the last Legislature designed to prevent the padding of the returns, which has been quite a common practice in cities, due to the fact that the proportion of funds they are able to draw from the State school fund is based upon the enumeration. The total enumeration this year shows 784,474 school children in the State this year, as compared with 799,077 last year. The enumeration and
